INDIAN REPUBLIC ON A STEADY TRAJECTORY

N R Mohanty

As India commemorates the 72nd Republic Day on January 26, our thoughts go out to the framers of the Indian constitution: they were indeed men of astute foresight. The document they prepared for the governance of India has not only survived the trials and tribulations in the past seven decades, but has also fostered India as the largest democracy of the world.

But then this journey for over seven decades has not been without ups and downs. The Indian Constitution has come under attack at various points of time in very many ways; but each time we, as a nation, have succeeded in resisting the onslaught and preserving our Republican character.

What is the Republican character that the founding fathers had envisaged for an independent India? For sure, a democratic

As the employment landscape is undergoing a shift, students and parents are now spending more time and energy to explore greater options for both study and career. It is good to see such awareness. Both education and career have a pivotal effect on our way of life. In a way this is a positive development as more streams have opened up and this means a greater range of career options for students to choose from. All this is welcome. However, let us not forget the fact that with more options comes more confusion and thus, it becomes necessary to exercise caution in the choices we make.

STUDY AND CAREER OPPORTUNITIES AFTER 10+2

When it comes to education, 10+2 is an important milestone in one's life. Students have to make a very important decision to continue with the stream chosen at 10+2 or to change to some other stream. Those who decide to remain with their earlier choice also have to choose a line of study. For example, a science student can choose from many options within the discipline like choosing BSc (general) or biotechnology, biochemistry etc.

The biggest question is on what basis should you choose your course or further study. Before we look for an answer to this question, let it be known what shouldn't be the basis. One of this is following the generalised examples around us. A few case studies will explain this. Anshula, after completing her degree in fashion technology got employed in a Singapore based fashion enterprise. Impressed by this, her cousin Mohana also joined a fashion designing course. It has been nearly a year and she is still struggling to get work that can pay him a reasonable amount. In another case, Rohan and Shahid who have been close friends, both took admission in a good private engineering college, as they couldn't qualify the JEE. Shahid is doing well while in just four or five weeks, Rohan felt that engineering is not his cup of tea. His parents have been supportive. They agreed to his decision to withdraw and join the Bachelor of Business Administration course which Rohan felt suits him better.

Let us accept the fact that each of us has been wired differently and what works for one is not necessarily going to work for the other in the same manner. So, before you make any decision in life, you should explore and evaluate the options and then make a choice which works best for you.

Remember that the choice you make after 10+2 is not an end in itself. It is a stepping stone to where you want to go to, what you want to do further and what career you want to pursue. In certain cases, your undergraduate degree (or any other qualification) may land you a job or make you eligible to appear for specific competitive examinations. In other cases, it acts as the foundation of your higher studies as these days many students prefer to have at least a Masters' degree before they start looking for work. Think about what you want to do with your undergraduate course and then it will be easier for you to decide. Now let us talk about different options.

Engineering: Although other disciplines have been mentioned in a random order, engineering has been listed first as it is the most sought after by students. We'll divide engineering studies in two segments.

Core Engineering: The path for core engineering courses is straight. To become an engineer you should've passed your 10+2 with physics, chemistry and mathematics group. Indian Institutes of Technology are in great demand by engineering aspirants. For long, only 5-6 IITs existed in the country. But many others have now opened at places like Guwahati, Patna, Jodhpur etc. To join the IITs, you need to qualify the Joint Entrance Examination (JEE). After IITs, come the National Institutes of Technology, which are also government institutions. There are independent and university-affiliated engineering colleges too, managed either by government or private bodies, spread across the country. In many states, their technical education boards conduct the entrance examination, while some institutes have their own independent tests. You have abundant choices with respect to branches of engineering. You may go with the most common ones like information technology, mechanical, electrical and chemical among others. Integrated courses of engineering and management (B.Tech + MBA) are also available and the five-year courses help save a year. However, you should focus on the quality of the course and not just on saving a year.

Emerging areas in Engineering/Technology: As we can all see new areas of engineering and technology are emerging while bringing with them new career opportunities. These areas include cloud computing, machine learning, artificial intelligence, data analytics, blockchain technology, internet of things, cyber security, mobile computing among others. Centre for Development of Advanced Computing (C-DAC), National Institute of Electronics and Information Technology (NIELIT) and some other engineering institutes provide training in these domains. Those who already have some of these qualifications may also join such courses. In some cases, these courses are open to students after 10+2.

Medicine: For medicine the highest demand is for MBBS degree. Next in line is the BDS which is a dental science course. Both of these courses are of five and a half years including a one-year internship. Admission to these courses is based on the performance in the National Eligibility Entrance Test better known as NEET. In comparison to engineering institutes, the number of medical education providers is much less, hence the competition may be more. A course like BAMS could also be considered. Then there are independent courses in Unani, Siddha and Homeopathic medicine. Bachelor of Physiotherapy is another medical course with a duration of four and a half years inclusive of a six-month long internship.

Those interested in treating pets, animals and birds have the option to join the Bachelor of Veterinary Science.

Another option in medical stream is nursing. The duration of BSc (Nursing) is 4 years. Contrary to popular belief, men can also take up nursing as a career.

Bachelor of Pharmacy, a course related to medicines is also available after 10+2.

Science: There are multiple options for aspirants of a science degree. You may choose from a basket of science subjects like Physics, Chemistry, Botany, Zoology etc. This option leaves you the opportunity to pursue your postgraduation in one of these subjects. The other options are choosing a BSc course in biotechnology, microbiology, bioinformatics, food science etc. Five-year integrated courses (BS-MS) are also good options. These are available at government-run Indian Institute of Science Education and Research's (IISER) at seven centres located at Berhampur, Pune, Kolkata, Bhopal, Thiruvananthapuram, Mohali and Tirupati. Admission is through the IISER aptitude test.

Law: Until a few years ago, a law degree (LLB) could only be pursued after graduation. This option still exists but now more and more students are opting for the five-year integrated graduate course in law, straight after completing 10+2 with any subject. There are more than 21 National Law Universities in the country where you can pursue this course. Admission is based on the score obtained in the Common Law Admission Test (CLAT) conducted every year. CLAT score is also accepted by many other institutes. In a few cases, you may be able to choose your degree combination such as - BA LLB, BSc LLB, BCom LLB or BBA LLB. A small number of private universities conduct their own entrance examinations.

Design: The National Institute of Design has pioneered design education in India. After that, mainly in the past decade, many more institutes have started offering courses in design. National Institute of Fashion Technology has been established by the central government to offer courses in fashion design. There are multiple choices to choose from to specialise in designing which include textile, leather, ceramic, interior, product, accessories, graphic, and film design etc. There are exclusive tests like the National Institute of Design-Design Aptitude Test (NID-DAT), Common Entrance Examination for Design (CEED), NIFT entrance examination and others to enrol in a design course.

Fine Arts: This is another area not many people are aware of. Students with a creative bent of mind may explore a course like Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) in which many sub-branches are available. These include painting, metal work, sculpture, textile, ceramics and interior decoration among others. Sir J. J. School of Arts is quite famous for its courses in fine arts. However, a BFA degree can be obtained from a number of universities and affiliated colleges.

Agriculture: Studying agriculture doesn't mean that the student will necessarily become a farmer. Various jobs and higher education opportunities are available to agriculture graduates. However, they can also take up scientific, high-tech agriculture and related activities. BSc (agriculture) takes four years to complete. Almost every university offers courses in agriculture. Plus, there are a number of agricultural universities spread across the country. In most of the cases, admission is based on the marks scored in 10+2 science group.

Related to agriculture, there are other courses viz. dairy science, fisheries, forestry, environmental science etc.

Planning: Planning can be seen as a stand alone discipline and also in conjunction with architecture. After completing an undergraduate degree in planning, a qualified person has the opportunity to work as an environment planner, landscape planner, city planner etc. School of Planning and Architecture,

New Delhi and Bhopal are among the best institutes to pursue courses in planning. In addition to these government institutes, few private universities also have courses in planning.

Architecture: Architecture is the science of designing buildings and other such structures. Those willing to work as an architect may enrol for a Bachelor of Architecture course of five years. For admission, one has to take the National Aptitude Test in Architecture (NATA) conducted by the Council of Architecture, Government of India. NATA is conducted twice a year.

Business Management: MBA is a well-known course and many of the students, irrespective of the discipline chosen by them at the UG level, plan to study for a master's degree/diploma in management. Graduate course in business management/administration was introduced much later. The duration of Bachelor of Business Management (BBM) administration (BBA) is three years. Basis of admission differs from institute to institute. Mostly, it is entrance-test based while few institutes may offer merit-based admission. Students from any discipline may join business management/administration course. In a few cases, courses with specialisations like BBA in banking or insurance are available. Five-year integrated course comprising of BBA and MBA are offered at certain institutions such as the Indian Institute of Management, Indore/Rohtak.

Undergraduate courses in sports/ hotel/ travel and tourism management are also available.

Commerce: A bachelor of commerce has become a generic qualification for those seeking a career in accounting, finance or related disciplines. It's a 3-year course with specializations in banking and computer science also available. B Com courses are available in most universities while prestigious names include the Shri Ram College of Commerce, New Delhi.

Mathematics/Statistics: These two subjects can be taken in combination with other subjects in a BSc or BA course. Otherwise you may join programmes like BSc maths or statistics at the prestigious Indian Statistical Institute or other colleges/universities.

Computer Science: A large number of students interested in computer science have the notion that to study the subject they have to take only an engineering course. That is not true. There are courses like BSc in computer science and BSc in software engineering. Bachelor of computer applications already has a good demand. All these courses are generally for three years.

Other professional/job-oriented courses: Chartered Accountancy (CA) is a very well-known course regulated by Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI). Similarly, there is a course in cost accountancy introduced by Institute of Cost and Management Accountants of India (ICMAI). Company Secretaries are also in great demand. A company secretary course can be done by registering with Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI). The course

COVID-19 VACCINE : FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Target Group: Healthcare providers / Frontline workers

Question	Potential response
1. Why am I being chosen for COVID-19 vaccine?	Government of India has prioritised the most at risk/high risk groups which will get the vaccine first. Healthcare providers have led the battle against COVID-19 from the front. The government wants you to be able to continue your work, without the fear of risk associated with the virus. Therefore, healthcare and frontline workers are among the first group of people to be vaccinated in the country.
2. What are the groups to be vaccinated in the first phase?	Based on the potential availability of vaccines the Government of India has selected the priority groups who will be vaccinated on priority as they are at higher risk. The first group includes healthcare workers because they are at high risk of contracting the infection and protecting them helps to sustain essential health services. The vaccination of frontline workers will help in reducing the societal and economic impact by reducing COVID-19 mortalities. The next group to receive COVID-19 vaccine will be persons over 50 years of age and persons under 50 years with comorbid conditions because there is high mortality in this category. The reason for including more than 50 years of age group for vaccination is that it will be able to cover 78% of persons having co-morbidities and thereby reduce mortality on account of COVID-19. More than 50 years of age group is divided into two sub groups. One sub group is 60 years and above, they will be vaccinated first. Second subgroup is between 50 to 60 years age group, they will be vaccinated after the first sub group is covered. The vaccination may not be sequential. It can go in parallel for all beneficiaries depending on the availability of the vaccine.
3. Will my family members also be given the vaccine?	Due to the limited vaccine supply in the initial phase, it will first be provided to people who are at higher risk of contracting COVID-19. In subsequent phases the COVID-19 vaccine will be made available to all others in need of the same.
4. Is this vaccine safe?	Yes. Safety and efficacy of vaccine will be ensured through various phases of vaccine trials and only then a vaccine will be introduced.
5. Does one need to follow preventive measures such as wearing a mask, hand sanitization, social distancing after receiving the COVID-19 vaccine?	Even after receiving the COVID-19 vaccine, we must continue taking all precautions like use of face cover or masks, hand sanitization and maintain distancing (6 feet or Do Gaj). These behaviours must be followed both at the session site and in general.
6. Are there any common side effects of this vaccine?	The COVID-19 vaccine will be safe and effective but may have minor side effects like fever, pain, etc., at the injection site. These effects can happen in any vaccine.

has different levels. After 10+2 one may register for a foundation course.

A commercial pilot course may be also pursued after 10+2, duration of which may be of 2 years duration or more. One may join this course at the Indira Gandhi Rashtriya Udan Akademi, Amethi in Uttar Pradesh or at other recognised institutes. Few airlines also arrange for this pilot education with the condition that the trained candidates will work with them.

More options: Bachelor degrees in mass communication, journalism, liberal arts, foreign languages etc. can be pursued. Diplomas of a duration of six months or longer are available in animation, jewellery designing, photography etc.

In addition to the above, there may be many more opportunities which one should evaluate before taking a final decision.

(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q36. Ordering of words in a sentence
(a) To arrange words in a sentence
(b) To arrange words in a sentence
(c) To arrange words in a sentence
(d) To arrange words in a sentence

- Q37. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q38. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q39. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q40. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q41. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q42. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q43. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q44. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q45. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q46. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q47. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q48. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q49. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q50. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air
(b) To be extremely happy
(c) To be completely alone
(d) To visit a place which is in the list of the seven wonders of the world

- Q51. To be in seventh heaven
(a) To fly in the air

PART-B

- Q51. A thin disc and a thin ring, both have mass M and radius R. Both rotate about axes through their center of mass and are perpendicular to their surfaces at the same angular velocity. Which of the following is true?

- (a) The ring has higher kinetic energy
(b) The disc has higher kinetic energy
(c) The ring and the disc have the same kinetic energy
(d) Kinetic energies of both the bodies are zero since they are not in linear motion

- Q52. Let there be an object having some chemicals in it. It starts moving with a uniform velocity v and a chemical reaction starts happening. In this case, which of the following statements is/are correct?

- Chemical reactions happening in the system cannot change the velocity v of the center of mass of the object.
  - Chemical reactions happening in the system cannot change kinetic energy of the particles inside with respect to the center of mass of object.
- Select the correct answer using the code given below:

- (a) 1 only (b) 2 only
(c) Both 1 and 2
(d) Neither 1 nor 2

- Q53. In which of the following phenomena do heat waves travel along a straight line with the speed of light?

- (a) Thermal conduction
(b) Thermal convection
(c) Thermal radiation
(d) Both, thermal conduction and radiation

- Q54. Which one of the following statements regarding Ohm's law is not correct?

- (a) Ohm's law is an assumption that current through a conductor is always directly proportional to the potential difference applied to it.
(b) A conducting device obeys Ohm's law when the resistance of a device is independent of magnitude and polarity of applied potential difference.
(c) A conducting material obeys Ohm's law when the resistance of material is independent of the - magnitude and direction of applied electric field.

(d) All homogeneous materials obey Ohm's law irrespective of whether the field is within range or strong.

- Q55. When a ball bounces off the ground, which of the following changes suddenly? (Assume no loss of energy to the floor)

- (a) Its speed
(b) Its momentum
(c) Its kinetic energy
(d) Its potential energy

- Q56. Which one of the following compounds does not exhibit a different oxidation number of the same element?

- (a) PbO<sub>2</sub> (b) FeO<sub>4</sub>
(c) Fe<sub>2</sub>O<sub>3</sub> (d) MnO<sub>2</sub>

- Q57. Which one of the following statements about glass is not correct?

- (a) Glass is often said to be a supercooled liquid.
(b) Glass has no definite melting point.
(c) Soda glass is harder than pyrex glass.
(d) Boron is present in pyrex glass.

- Q58. Which one of the following statements is correct?

- (a) Both boiling and evaporation are surface phenomena.
(b) Boiling is a surface phenomenon, but evaporation is a bulk phenomenon.
(c) Both boiling and evaporation are bulk phenomena.
(d) Boiling is a bulk phenomenon, but evaporation is a surface phenomenon.

- Q59. Which one of the following statements about diamond and graphite is not correct?

- (a) Diamond has a tetrahedral structure, whereas graphite has a hexagonal planar structure.
(b) Both physical and chemical properties of diamond and graphite are different.
(c) Graphite is soft but diamond is hard.
(d) Graphite is a good conductor of electricity while diamond is not.

- Q60. The raw materials used for the manufacture of Portland cement are

- (a) Lime, silica and sulphur dioxide
(b) Lime, silica and carbon dioxide
(c) Lime, silica and alumina
(d) Lime, silica and boric acid

- Q61. Which one of the following statements about water is not true?

- (a) Hydrogen bonds are present in liquid water.
(b) Water has a high boiling point.

- (c) Water has a high heat of fusion.
(d) Water is a non-polar molecule.

- Q62. A sample of 'soft soap' contains

- (a) Caesium
(b) Potassium
(c) Calcium
(d) Magnesium

- Q63. If an object moves at a non-zero constant acceleration for a certain interval of time, then the distance it covers in that time

- (a) depends on its initial velocity
(b) is independent of its initial velocity.
(c) increases linearly with time.
(d) depends on its initial displacement.

- Q64. A solid disc and a solid sphere have the same mass and same radius. Which one has the higher moment of inertia about its centre of mass?

- (a) The disc
(b) The sphere
(c) Both have the same moment of inertia
(d) The information provided is not sufficient to answer the question

- Q65. Two substances of densities  $\rho_1$  and  $\rho_2$  are mixed in equal volume and their relative density is 4. When they are mixed in equal masses, relative density is 3. The values of  $\rho_1$  and  $\rho_2$  respectively are

- (a) 6, 2 (b) 3, 5
(c) 12, 4 (d) 9, 3

- Q66. A car starts from Bengaluru, goes 50 km in a straight line towards south, immediately turns around and returns to Bengaluru. The time taken for this round trip is 2 hours. The magnitude of the average velocity of the car for this round trip

- (a) is 0
(b) is 50 km/hr
(c) is 25 km/hr
(d) cannot be calculated without knowing acceleration.

- Q67. "The sum of emfs and potential differences around a closed loop equals zero" is a consequence of

- (a) Ohm's law
(b) Conservation of charge.
(c) Conservation of momentum.
(d) Conservation of energy.

- Q68. A student measures certain lengths using a meter scale having least count equal to 1 mm. Which one of the following measurements is more precise?

- (a) 0.50 mm (b) 29.07 cm
(c) 0.925 m (d) 910 mm

- Q69. If the work done on the system or by the system is zero, which one of the

- following statements for a gas kept at a certain temperature is correct?

- (a) Change in internal energy of the system is equal to flow of heat in or out of the system.
(b) Change in internal energy of the system is less than heat transferred.
(c) Change in internal energy of the system is more than the heat flow.
(d) Cannot be determined

- Q70. Consider the following part of an electric circuit:

- The total electrical resistance in the given part of the electric circuit is

- (a)  $\frac{15}{8}$  ohm
(b)  $\frac{15}{7}$  ohm
(c) 15 ohm
(d)  $\frac{17}{3}$  ohm

- Q71. Which one of the following statements regarding lenses is not correct?

- (a) A convex lens produces both real and virtual images.
(b) A concave lens produces both real and virtual images.
(c) A convex lens can produce images equal, greater and smaller than the size of the object.
(d) A concave lens always produces images smaller than the size of the object.

- Q72. 10 g of ice at  $-10^\circ\text{C}$  is mixed with 10 g of water at  $0^\circ\text{C}$ . The amount of heat required to raise the temperature of mixture to  $10^\circ\text{C}$  is

- (a) 400 cal (b) 550 cal
(c) 1050 cal (d) 1200 cal

- Q73. Which one of the following does not represent the salt, Calcium carbonate?

- (a) Lime water
(b) Limestone
(c) Chalk
(d) Marble

- Q74. Soaps clean surfaces on the principle based on

- (a) Viscosity
(b) Flootation
(c) Elasticity
(d) Surface tension

- Q75. Which one of the following substances is not a mixture?

- (a) Tin
(b) Sea water
(c) Soil (d) Air

- Q76. Which one of the following is termed as 'Dry ice'?

- (a) Ice present in ice-cream
(b) Solid water at Antarctica
(c) Solid state of carbon dioxide
(d) Solid water of ionosphere

- Q77. Net movement of water from a dilute to a concentrated solution

- through a selectively permeable membrane is called

- (a) Diffusion
(b) Dispersion
(c) Osmosis
(d) Absorption

- Q78. Blood is a type of

- (a) Epithelial tissue
(b) Muscular tissue
(c) Nervous tissue
(d) Connective tissue

- Q79. Mitochondria are able to produce their own

- (a) Nucleus
(b) Proteins
(c) Chloroplasts
(d) Digestive enzymes

- Q80. Which one of the following statements is correct?

- (a) Xylem consists of tracheids, vessels, xylem parenchyma and xylem fibres.
(b) Flexibility in plants is due to sclerenchyma.
(c) Parenchyma have no intercellular spaces.
(d) Xylem consists of sieve plate, sieve tube and companion cells.

- Q81. Who among the following popularized the use of embryological characters in taxonomy?

- (a) Carl Linnaeus
(b) Panchanan Maheshwari
(c) Birbal Sahni
(d) Bentham and Hooker

- Q82. Water is heated with a coil of resistance R connected to domestic supply. The rise of temperature of water will depend on

- Supply voltage.
- Current passing through the coil.
- Time for which voltage is supplied.

- Select the correct answer from among the following:

- (a) 1, 2 and 3
(b) 1 and 2 only

OUR DEMOCRACY

We describe our country as a sovereign democratic republic which is parliamentary and secular in character and is a Union of States. Now let us see what all this means.

As you know, up to August 15, 1947, we were under the British rule, i.e., an alien people living in a far-away land determined our destiny and made laws for us. Then we became independent and acquired the right to govern ourselves. From then on we are not answerable to any outside authority for what we do or do not do. This is what is meant by being sovereign. The word sovereign also means a king and in fact in olden times the sovereignty lay with the kings. They could do whatever they wanted, without, if they so liked, even consulting their own people. Their word was the law. Now this sovereignty in our country is vested in the entire people in each one of us inhabiting this vast land. Our own word and our own will, as collectively expressed, is the law. We have instituted a well thought-out system for the expression of this collective will. This is possible only if we choose a limited number of people who may sit at one place and speak with authority on our behalf. Through these representatives of ours we make laws and say what we want and what we do not want. This is democracy.

We are by now quite familiar with the elections in our country which are held periodically. This is our way of choosing our representatives and the Constitution has seen to it that the elections are fair and impartial. There is an independent Election Commission conduct elections and nobody has any influence on this Commission. It has only to observe the provisions of the Constitution. We are a free democracy and all of us are entitled to hold whatever views we think right and to differ from each other. All people holding different views are free to compete with each other for the endorsement of their views by the majority. For this purpose those having common views constitute themselves into political parties. We have quite a number of such parties in our country and they all nominate their candidates to fight elections. Even individuals can fight as independents.

They all go and solicit the support of the common man. Now this is where the common man is the king. He is in the happy position of supporting or rejecting, of his own free will, any candidate he likes. Our Constitution has given the right to vote to all our people. In other words we enjoy what is called the adult franchise. After the elections, the party, or the group of parties coming together, which manages to get the majority support forms the Government. The leader of this party or group of parties becomes the Prime Minister. Thus, through Prime Minister of our own choice we govern ourselves.

India is a big country and we have among us people practicing a number of religions. The people are all free to follow whatever religion they want but if the Government also adopts the dictums of any one religion; even if it may happen to be the religion of the majority, it will be unfair to others. So we have decided through our Constitution that the Government will be neutral in the matters of religion and all will be equal in the eyes of law. We are thus having a parliamentary and secular system of democracy.

Based on administrative convenience and other considerations like language, etc., the country is divided into a number of territorial units. They are called States. As we shall see later, they enjoy a large measure of authority to manage their internal affairs. Some units, however, are not very big and they are called Union Territories, being directly under the Central Government. These States and the Union Territories are all members of our joint family and that is why we are known as a Union of States. We could also call ourselves a Federation but the word 'Union' has a certain legal meaning. It implies that our unity cannot be destroyed. No State has the right to get out of the Union.

Following an analogy of Mahatma Gandhi, you take a paper and draw a very small circle in its centre, it will represent you and your family. Then draw a slightly bigger circle around it which will be your village, or town, or city. Again another circle and that will be your State, then finally, the biggest circle around them all which will represent the country. The country thus includes everything within its circumference and all smaller units are its integral parts. Following Mahatma Gandhi's analogy further we may say that these circles do not suppress each other, but help and support each other; the country as a whole looking after the welfare of the units and the units contributing to the strength of the country. This joint family of ours is a compact entity. The Constitution applies to all the people and all the territories, and makes us a single well-knit nation.

The democratic system and integration of the country, however, are not ends in themselves. The real aim is the progress and well-being of the people. Our Constitution thus goes further. It has not only enabled us to have our own rule, but has also given us a way of life which ensures our dignity as human beings. As a matter of fact, the very preamble of the Constitution embodies the resolve of the people of India to secure for all citizens Justice, social, economic and political, Liberty of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship, Equality of status and of opportunity, and to promote among them all Fraternity, assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the nation.

These are very laudable objectives indeed. But how are they to be achieved and how are they to be safeguarded? For this the Constitution has created a number of great institutions, like our President, our Parliament, our State Legislatures, our Courts and so on.

government was the essence of it. The overarching vision was that India will have not only a democratic government in form but also in substance - both the way the government comes into existence and the way it conducts itself.

There are democracies and democracies. Even China - a totalitarian state -- calls itself a democracy. People's Democracy. North Korea, another dictatorial set up modeled after China, is officially known as the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. A military-led Pakistan called itself a "Guided Democracy." That explains democracy's pull factor - every nation wants to be known as a democracy. But the sad fact is that only a few nations are qualified to be called true democracies. Happily India is one of them.

A real democracy entails free and fair competition; it must allow multiple contestants to bid for power in level-playing-conditions. Post-Soviet Russia is not a democracy in the classic sense because although it allows multiple contestants, it queers the playing field through several restrictions.

How does India rate in this trajectory of a true democracy? The Indian Constitution provides an elaborate framework for the conduct of free and fair elections. Although there used to be sporadic cases of booth capturing and forcible stuffing of the ballot in the early decades after independence, those practices virtually died down with the conduct of elections in several phases and with the large-scale deployment of the paramilitary forces. The then Chief Election Commissioner T. N. Seshan started the practice in the 1990s and that continues till date.

A real democracy not only provides salutary conditions for conducting free and fair elections, it also stipulates ways and means to ensure that an elected government is kept within the democratic bounds through reasonable checks and balances. The Indian Constitution created an elaborate framework to establish the primacy of the Legislature, the Executive and the Judiciary in their respective spheres and stipulated checks and balances to ensure a moderating influence in their working relationship with each other. A free and vibrant press is also the hallmark of a true democracy.

Though this arrangement has come under strain several times during the last seven decades -- and on some occasions we stared at the precipice - it has never reached a point of no return. The Emergency was a dark chapter in the history of Indian democracy - that was a clear negation of the spirit of the Indian Constitution - but, mercifully, it proved to be a temporary aberration.

As we have adopted a parliamentary system of government - where there is virtual convergence of power between the Legislature and the Executive -- the Legislature is expected to point to the foibles and follies of the Executive and place effective roadblocks on its way, in case of abuse of power.

The real challenge to the arbitrary exercise of power by the Executive comes from the Judiciary. The framers of the Indian Constitution, following the example primarily that of the US constitution, provided for the superior court's power of the Judicial Review: to review the constitutionality of not only the Executive's but also the Legislature's actions. It was bound to be a controversial provision: questions were raised as to how could a few unelected men sit in judgement over the decisions of the elected members of the legislature representing the entire country?

The founding fathers of the Constitution - both in the US and in India - were of the firm view that there was a real danger of the Executive going roughshod over the liberties of the citizens, in complete violation of the provisions of the Constitution, if its powers went unchecked. In the US, there is the separation of powers between the Executive and the Legislature; so the Legislature, the US Congress, could act as a countervailing power to the Executive, i.e. the US President. But the framers of the Constitution of the US felt that a body of eminent judges would be better placed to decide the legality of the actions of both the Executive and the Legislature.

In case of India, it was all the more needed as the Executive is a mere extension of the Legislature. The framers of the Indian Constitution saw the role of the Judiciary - especially the Supreme Court of India - as paramount to keep the spirit of the Constitution alive, whenever the Legislature or the Executive transgressed it.

That has, of course, led to ugly clashes between the Executive and the Judiciary. It was most visible during the 1970s when the then government carried out amendments to some of the provisions of the Constitution which were struck down by the Supreme Court as unconstitutional.

In the Keshavananda Bharati case, the Supreme Court ruled that while the Legislature has untrammelled power to amend the Constitution, no government could alter the core values, what it called the basic structure, of the Constitution. This again led to a backlash from the government of the day. Contrary to the conventional practice of appointing the senior-most judge as the Chief Justice of India, the then government decided to supersede the three senior-most judges of the Supreme Court who had ruled against the unlimited power of the Legislature in the Keshavananda Bharati case. The dissenting judge in that case - who had supported the plea that no restriction should be placed on the amending power of the legislature -- was elevated as the Chief Justice of India. That gave rise to a notion of a 'Committed Judiciary', putting paid to the constitutional imperatives of the checks and balances. The relationship between the Executive and the Judiciary whether it is that of unseemly confrontation or embarrassing collaboration, pose a danger to proper functioning of the democracy.

The founding fathers of the Indian Constitution had a distinct vision of a Federal and Secular India. The plurality and the diversity is the essence of India as a nation. This plurality and diversity could be best manifested in a federal form of government where the Union Government (Centre) is responsible for the larger concerns involving the unity and the integrity of the nation whereas the provincial governments (States) look after the nitty-gritty of the planning and execution of the policies for the betterment of the lives of the respective residents.

But, unfortunately, the Centre-State relations in India have been rather fractious since the inception. The Constitution had a provision for the suspension of a state assembly and imposition of the President's Rule under Article 356 of the Indian Constitution. This was to be exercised by the central authority in extraordinary situations like the complete breakdown of the state machinery. But the controversial dismissal of the Communist government in Kerala in the 1960s set a bad precedent which was indiscriminately used by the subsequent central governments in the 1970s and 1980s. It was only after the Supreme Court of India stipulated certain conditions for the exercise of the Art 356, in the famous S.R. Bommai vs Union of India case, such reckless abuse of a constitutional position was halted.

Though India was divided into two nations on the basis of religion in 1947, the framers of the Indian Constitution were of the firm conviction that India would be a secular state, where all religions would be respected but there would be no state religion. But, unfortunately, vote bank politics has vitiated this ideal both at the centre and in some states -- it has placed roadblocks on creating a truly secular state. There have been attempts by certain political formations to appease the minorities; there have been others which nursed the majoritarian sentiment. It has taken a dangerous turn when its ramifications have extended from party politics to government policies.

The true character of a democracy is manifested in the way it treats its minorities. The US's treatment of the racial minorities - especially the blacks -- has been a subject of hot debate worldwide.

If we wish India to make a mark as a vibrant Democratic Republic, we will have to make renewed efforts - both at the level of the governments and the citizenry - to ensure that we do not go the Hungarian or the Turkish way, where the democratic institutions and processes have been systematically subverted by the popularly elected governments. It is a momentous challenge for all of us to keep the ship of democracy steady as it negotiates choppy waters.

The challenge is manifold: we, as a nation, must ensure that we are in a position to conduct free and fair elections and provide inalienable political, social and economic rights to our citizens, and that we are capable of running a truly federal and secular government, in which the main pillars of our democracy function in the true spirit of the Indian Constitution.

Centre urges farmers to take advantage of Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana

The Centre has urged the farming community to take advantage of the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana (PMFBY) in order to become "self-reliant farmers". In a statement, the Union Agriculture Ministry said claims worth Rs. 90,000 crore have so far been disbursed to farmers since the launch of the scheme on 13th January 2016. The Central Government's flagship crop insurance scheme was a historic step towards strengthening risk coverage of crops for farmers approved on 13th January, 2016. The scheme was conceived as a milestone initiative to provide a comprehensive risk solution at the lowest uniform premium across the country for farmers. In the scheme, premium cost over and above the farmer share is equally subsidized by the Centre and States. The Voluntary Scheme covers over 5.5 crore farmers' applications year on year and till date, claims worth 90,000 crore rupees have already been paid out. Even during COVID-19 lock down period nearly 70 lakh farmers benefitted and claims worth over 8,741 crore rupees were transferred to the beneficiaries.

SC stays three new farm laws, forms committee to resolve crisis

The Supreme Court on January 12 put a stay on the implementation of the three farm laws until further orders. It also set up a committee of agricultural experts to facilitate talks between the Centre and farmer unions to resolve the impasse. The Apex Court said, it was trying to solve the problem in the best way and had the power to suspend the laws. The bench headed by Chief Justice of India, S. A. Bobde and comprising Justices A. S. Bopanna and V. Ramasubramanian said those genuinely interested in finding a solution would appear before the committee. The bench was hearing a batch of petitions regarding the Constitutional validity of three farm laws passed by Parliament and a plea to disperse the protesting farmers.

US unveils 1.9 trillion dollar Coronavirus relief package

US President-elect Joe Biden has unveiled a 1.9 trillion dollar Coronavirus emergency relief package. The stimulus plan underscores Biden's intent to aggressively shore up a deteriorating economy and address the devastation wrought by the pandemic. It is designed to provide another infusion of federal aid for families, businesses and local governments confronting a surge of Covid cases. Biden's plan includes a new round of direct payments to US households, funding to promote the safe opening of schools and mounting a national vaccine program.

US imposes new sanctions on Chinese officials, state-owned oil company CNOOC

The US has imposed new sanctions on Chinese officials and state-owned enterprise and oil giant CNOOC over Beijing's increasing assertiveness in the South China Sea. A statement from US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo said the US is imposing visa restrictions on Chinese individuals including executives of state-owned enterprises and officials of the Chinese Communist Party and Navy. While announcing the sanctions, Mr. Pompeo said the US stands with Southeast Asian claimant states seeking to defend their sovereign rights and interests, consistent with international law. He said, "we will continue to act until we see Beijing cease its coercive behaviour in the South China Sea". Mr. Pompeo said, the restrictions could also apply to immediate family members. The US Administration also said it is adding China's state oil company, the China National Offshore Oil Corporation, to a list of companies with which US citizens are banned from doing business. The US administration also added Chinese aviation firm Skytrion and nine other firms to the blacklist.

Saina Nehwal crashes out of Thailand Open

In Badminton, ace Indian shuttler Saina Nehwal crashed out of the Thailand Open after a hard-fought second round defeat against Busanan Ongthammurungphan of Thailand. Saina lost 23-21, 14-21, 16-21 in a match that lasted for 68 minutes to bow out of the Super 1000 tournament. With Saina's loss, India's challenge in the women's singles event came to an end at the tournament. Sixth-seeded PV Sindhu had lost her opening round match to world No. 18 Mia Blichfeldt. In men's singles, Kidambi Srikanth also pulled out of the tournament before the start of his second-round match due to a calf muscle strain. In the Men's doubles event, the Indian pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty also crashed out after suffering a straight-games defeat in their second-round contest.
